Thanks Lynne, this is all helpful.

Here's some names and email addresses, a mailing list sounds great. If any of the guests have specific questions they'll be able to email directly with them instead of going through me? I'm playing organizer but at this stage it's nice to get everyone on the emails.

Dietary restrictions are pretty mild in this group. Kris is vegetarian (eggs and dairy OK). Anastasia sometimes prefers a vegetarian meal as well, but isn't as strict about it. Everyone else eats pretty much anything, preferring omnivorous meals. Hopefully this can be accommodated, if you think it should be written into the special conditions then I'll take your advice on that.

On the drinks side we don't have any special requirements for alcohol that I can think of, the standard spread is probably great, but a couple of people aboard will appreciate it if we can stock non-alcoholic options (NA Beers, sodas, etc) as well as alcoholic ones.

While I'm pretty confident all 10 of us will be able to attend, I agree it's a good idea to put the rates based on guest count as an assurance against any unexpected changes there.

Hi Austin,

Thank you for the update. Based on that, I'll plan to send you the "contract & details email" this weekend. That separate email will include the completed contract, payment details and options, plus basically everything you need to know to move forward.

Before I do that, do you want me to set up a "Fitzpatrick Email Group" to keep everyone in the loop going forward? If so, please send me a quick guest list including first and last names, noting couples where it might not be obvious, along with an email address for each person who wants to be included, ensuring at least one email address per couple. I'll then use the email group going forward, starting with the "contract & details email".

I always include my own set of special conditions in every contract, and the yachts typically list a couple of yacht-specific special conditions they require. Most of the yacht special conditions are rather generic within the industry and the ones I use mainly ensure all parties are aligned from the start. For instance, my special conditions include the rates based on guest count in case there are any adjustments between now and the time of the charter.

I often run any special or unusual dietary or beverage requirements by crews in advance, but since you already noted that you don't have any specific dietary notes for the group, we're all set there.

Please let me know your thoughts on the email group or if you have any additional questions based on my email above.

Thanks,

Lynne Campbell

Lynne,

I'm ready to proceed to booking.

As this is my first time booking something quite like this I'm unsure of any special conditions, is it common to add any? Are there any preferences that I should make known at this time to consider? The body of the contract was acceptable to me and my guests so I don't have any concerns there.

I think we're all flying direct via Miami so I don't need anything regarding water taxi service at this time.

Hi Austin,

We are now holding Do More for April 18 - 25, 2027. I'm holding her for 10 guests, 7 nights, with Nanny Cay

Marina, Tortola, BVI ports, and at the 10 guest rate of $49,000 plus tip.

Below you'll find some details about the hold, the attached industry contract, what's required to book, what happens once you're ready to book, plus how to sign up for your Charter Portal with us.

Details about the Hold: The hold is valid for two weeks or through August 6. Please note that the hold can be challenged by another interested broker/party. If challenged, we would then have 48 business hours to confirm on our end (with a signed contract plus appropriate deposit in our hands) or give up the hold to the challenging broker. We can easily beat a challenge with a DocuSigned contract plus credit card deposit.

Review the Standard Industry Charter Contract: I've attached a blank, standard industry charter contract for your review. Please review this in advance to ensure you're okay with the body of the contract and note in advance that the body of the contract cannot be changed or the contract will not be accepted by the yacht.

What's Required to Book: In order to book the charter, we'll need a signed contract plus a 25% deposit in hand. Your 2nd 25% deposit will be due to us 6 1/2 months prior to your charter start date and your final 50% payment will be due to us 45 days prior to your charter start date.

Once You're Ready to Book: Once you're ready to book, please let us know. At that point, we'll complete the contract header and special conditions for you and then send it your way as part of a separate "contract & details email". That separate email will include the completed contract, payment details and options, plus everything you need to know in order to book.

Sign Up for Your Charter Portal: As you're progressing forward, it's time to create a Charter Portal with us. An email/password you establish will be used by your entire group going forward. The Charter Portal will facilitate payments, provide access to your online preference form, plus provide some other general charter information. At this stage and once you sign up, you'll gain access to our "getting there" details, our USVI & BVI hotel recommendations for any overnight stays, plus important trip insurance details.

- Once established, login to your Charter Portal here: <https://www.carefreecharters.com/login/>
- Password Security: If sharing your password, please do so via text to protect our banking details, which are contained within the system.

Please let me know what questions you have.

Hi Austin,

Thank you for the update and the additional details about your group.

To clarify availability, Encore is not booked yet; she currently has a hold for April 24 to May 1. We can challenge this hold, which requires you to be certain you will book if we secure the dates. The other party would then have 48 business hours to either confirm their charter or release the dates to us. Encore would be an exceptional choice, though please note they offer "light diving" with a maximum of three dives per week for certified guests.

Do More is also an excellent option and is fully available for your preferred dates of April 18–25. This yacht features a three-person crew, including a Dive Instructor. Do More has a fabulous Captain and Chef, offers a more extensive dive package, and includes a great assortment of watersports.

Beyond these two options, other 10-guest yachts with on-board diving become more expensive.

Would you like me to place a complimentary hold on Do More while your group reviews flights and makes a final decision? A hold carries no obligation but secures your first rights to the yacht and dates for two weeks.

Thanks,

Lynne Campbell

Hi Lynne,

This is firming up on my side a little bit. I've had some conversations with my friends and rounded up a group that's looking like 10 people, and we're eyeing dates April 18th through 25th. We could likely slide a little later if availability was better, earlier would be really tough.

Of the boats above we were interested in the "Do More" and the "Encore", though Encore is stretching our budget just a tad. I notice on the web tool that it looks like Encore may already be booked for our preferred dates anyways. Was the list above exhaustive or are there others with similar strong recommendations we should be aware of?

A bit more information about the group, now that I know who all it is. It sounds like we'll have a few newly certified scuba divers, talk of this trip has caused some PADI classes to get scheduled, I've been a diver since I was a teen but the others aboard will be newer. This has shifted my opinion firmly towards wanting on-boat diving, rather than rendezvous diving. The group at large considers themselves foodies, one guest is vegetarian but the rest will eat anything with a particular fondness for local or seasonal cuisine.

We're all interested in getting in the water a lot, one guest expressed a desire to try e-foiling, but it seems like all of these have a great complement of water toys so I'm not overly concerned there.

I realize that it's prime booking season for the timeframe we're looking at so I won't drag this out too much longer, we're looking to make a decision and place a hold in the next week or so.

Austin
